Jim Jiang Computer Scientist

A passionate, flexible full-stack developer in multiple languages, across multiple platforms. Attack problems from every angle to create effective, efficient solutions.

Education

September 2015 - May 2019 at New York University

Bachelors in Computer Science Minors in Chemistry and Web Development and Applications Completed Coursework in Full Stack Web Development, Algorithms, Operating Systems, Computers Systems Organization, Computer Networks, Open Source Software, and Object Oriented Programming.

Skills

Excellent

CSS, HTML, Java, JavaScript, Python, Web Development, Windows

Proficient

Android, Git, iOS, JQuery, Node.js, Parallel Computing

Knowledgeable

Ajax, C, Cloud Computing, Cookies, Databases, Linux, macOS, PHP, Swift

Experience

July 2016 - Current at Development Manager at Angry Apples Marketing

- Develop and integrate web applications for clients without any interruption in service, including websites, landing pages, internal databases, assets, and company portals.
- Interface with clients for design and functional approvals.
- Work with client tech teams to prepare for integration with zero downtime.
- Delegate workload for projects between team members.

December 2018 – Current at Marketing Director at IES Test Prep

- Develop new applications and company work flows to improve value proposition of services to students and parents.
- Review and edit marketing materials for professionalism, correctness, and quality.
- Develop and execute marketing strategies and promotional plans to remain relevant in a competitive marketplace.

Reach Me

Get all the info you need at jimjiang.com/hi